

Adrian Tolson
20|20 Marine Energy

Adrian Tolson is 20|20 Marine Energy's Senior Partner and one of the shipping industry's leading marine energy experts. With more than 30 years of experience he has both detailed knowledge and insight into the supply and demand side of marine fuel, and into bunkering infrastructure development.

Since founding 20|20 in 2015, Adrian has led numerous global business development projects across the supply chain. Over the last four years Adrian's work has included assisting in suppliers raising capital, providing port authorities with marine fuel consultancy, advising the investment community of the disruptive impacts of the 2020 global sulphur cap, and delivering solutions-driven marine fuel consultancy for shipowners and fuel purchasers.

Adrian's experience spans leadership roles with some of the industry's largest marine fuel suppliers, including Chemoil Energy, where he was responsible for successfully driving the company through to IPO; and as Vice President and General Manager of OW Bunker where he established its physical supply operation in the USA.

To read more of Adrian's marine fuels insights, please click here.