TSI's Chooses New York's Famed Waldorf-Astoria for Sulphur World Symposium 2011 – Growing List of Industry Experts Confirmed as Speakers

WASHINGTON, DC, August 12, 2010 — The Sulphur Institute (TSI) announced today it has entered into an agreement with New York's famed Waldorf-Astoria hotel for Sulphur World Symposium 2011 from April 11-14. Catherine Randazzo, TSI president and CEO, stated, "The legendary Waldorf-Astoria is well-suited for our event. The Waldorf has a tremendous history that is obvious when you walk in the door. And New York City offers so many museums, parks, restaurants, shopping and various buildings of architectural interest to our delegates, in addition to TSI's program and valuable networking opportunities."

Noting the success of TSI's 2010 symposium in Doha, Qatar with its record attendance, TSI staff member, Dr. Chris deBrey noted, "We were in Doha in 2010, center of a rapidly-growing region for sulphur supply, now we will be in the financial capital of the United States, a country home to producers, consumers, traders, transport providers—every aspect of the industry." De Brey added, "The venue will draw not only the diversity of the U.S. sulphur and related industries, but delegates from overseas as well. We anticipate another record-breaking attendance."

Speakers are already confirmed for energy, carbon capture and storage, business growth opportunities for South America and Africa, as well as on alternative fuels. More information and ongoing developments related to TSI's symposium can be found at: www.sulphurinstitute.org. Randazzo encouraged all involved in this dynamic industry to plan to attend.

Founded in 1960, TSI represents all stakeholders actively engaged in producing, buying, selling, handling, transporting, or adding value to sulphur on a global basis.
