Francis Osborne
Argus Consulting

Francis is Head of Forecasting in the Argus Consulting group where his remit is to develop and coordinate the forecasting processes across a range of different commodities. He has over 30 years of experience of analysing and consulting on global oil and gas markets and during this time has worked for a number of leading consultancies. Prior to joining Argus, Francis was Head of Analytics at ICIS. He has also held positions in the past with Saudi Petroleum Overseas Ltd., refining consultancy KBC Advanced Technologies and research firm Wood Mackenzie.