

Sulphur World Symposium 2014

Long Beach, California, USA | April 7-9, 2014

The Sulphur Institute is proud to host the Sulphur World Symposium 2014 — an annual event that attracts sulphur industry leaders for two days of expert speakers, networking events, and industry tours. TSI's last symposium held in North America brought together senior management delegates from various aspects of the sulphur industry. TSI is projecting record-breaking attendance at this year's event in Long Beach, California, USA.

Bulk Freight

Klaus Larsen – Senior Chartering Manager
Ultrabulk (USA), Inc.

As freight becomes a larger part of the delivered cost of sulphur, this segment will give an insight of the fundamentals of the global dry bulk freight market as well as challenges for ship owners in the future. The presentation will review global dry cargo market fundamentals and provide an overview of global ocean transportation vessel supply and demand. This will include the effect on new orders and role sulphur plays in this market.

The presentation will also consider the effect of ship owners securing higher efficiency ships for lower shipping costs. Updates on new regulations that could adversely affect the cost and conditions of carrying bulk sulphur will be discussed. It will also seek to answer the question “What challenges lie ahead for ship owners and sulphur shippers?”
